No. 12 The Best New Books
Hitchcock memories from Tippi Hedren, John Grisham's latest nail-biter and a winsome, bittersweet novella EDITED BY KIM HUBBARD

Fredrik Backman
And Every Morning the Way Home Gets Longer and Longer

NOVELLA Noah is losing his beloved grandpa to dementia, but they can still sit on a park bench together discussing the essentials: mathematics, love, fishing, fear. Wise and heartbreaking, Backman's slim novella celebrates the joy of connecting even in the midst of letting go.

John Grisham
The Whistler

THRILLER Florida judicial investigator Lacy Stoltz gets a tip that a respected judge, in cahoots with the local mafia, is skimming cash from a Native American casino. And then things get worse: There's a vicious, mysterious murder. Grisham's latest shows him in fine form, serving up unexpected curves, blind alleys and a fulfilling destination.

Tippi Hedren
Tippi

MEMOIR Hedren, now 86, is best known as the "Hitchcock blonde" who starred in The Birds. Here, her tales of the director's obsession with her—and his actions when she didn't reciprocate—are jaw-dropping, as is her description of being pecked by live birds on-set because "the mechanical [ones] aren't working." Somehow it didn't put her off animal activism: One of the many lions Hedren has rescued nearly cost her daughter—actress Melanie Griffith, then 20—an eye. It's been quite a life.

NEW IN FICTION

Francine Prose
Mister Monkey

A mediocre, way-off-Broadway musical about a chimp is the link joining a motley crew of characters in Prose's madcap, razor-sharp comedy.

Danielle Steel
The Award

In Steel's eventful latest, a young girl involved with the WWII French Resistance helps a German commandant as well—with far-reaching consequences.

Dori Salerno
Mrs. Bennet's Sentiments

Jane Austen's marriage-obsessed mother of four didn't even have a first name in Pride and Prejudice. Salerno's fun reimagining gives her her due.

Kid Pick!

Kenny Loggins
Footloose

This time, it's cheeky zoo animals who break out and dance. Inspired by his first grandchild, Loggins rewrote his 1984 hit song's lyrics for this charming book and CD. (Ages 4-7)
